SELF-CULTURE IN ST. LOUIS

Much has been done in St. Louis for the moral and intellectual culture of wage-carners by an organization known as the Self-Culture Hall Association. It began its work nine years ago, expertencing much difficulty at the outset in convincing the workingmen that no charity was intended, that there was no intention to wound their sense of independence, and no desire to lead them into anything against their personal wishes. In order to make them feel independent and to preserve their manliness and self-respect, the apportunity for a contribution of 50 cents for the season as a membership fee was given to each registered attendant; verybody was admitted, and no man or woman was precluded from lecture or reading room on account of non-payment of fee. This influence made itself felt very soon. The reading rooms were filled, lectures visited and cagerly listened to, detating clubs formed, the classes for dis-seninating useful knowledge organized and well attended, and the branches for demestic economy, cooking, sewing, house cleaning, and decorating, etc., were quickly filled with young girls, auxious to avail themselves of these teachings. The gympaisure and baths, for the use of which a contribution of $2 per annum is asked, were especially well putronized. The as osciation has established several branches, with a large lecture room in each, as also reading rooms, libraries, gymnasia, and baths During the last year meward of 900 educational lectures were given to the various clubs, and attended by from 40,000 50,000 men and women New York
